

Protect Our Air & Water, Jobs & Economy, & Transportation Investments

The Costs of I-2117

I-2117 would allow more pollution and cut investments in clean air and water, forests and farmlands, jobs and transportation. It would strip away investments in every county in Washington, including:

- Transportation, putting transit service, ferries and road projects at risk across the region and making traffic worse.
- Clean air and water, like programs to reduce toxic air and water pollution that endangers our families and communities.
- Preventing wildfires, including funding for local governments to reduce the risk of fires & prepare.
- Support for Tribal nations, like programs to help keep Native communities safe from flooding and sea level rise.
- Fish habitat and salmon recovery, like grants to remove barriers that hurt migrating salmon.

No on 2117: An Unprecedented Coalition

Leading Washington State companies, environmental organizations, Tribal nations, labor unions, and community organizations are coming together to defeat I-2117. Over 100 organizations have endorsed the No on 2117 campaign, including:
